

Inquiry into the American Dream
Joel Brooks

“What is the American dream?” This question guides our research throughout the course of English 102: Inquiry into the American Dream. English 102 builds on 101, helping you learn a variety of crucial research skills that you will use in the remainder of your college career and well beyond. We will engage a number of texts such as Hunter S. Thompson’s Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas and films such as the 1961 classic A Raisin in the Sun. Not only will you examine the American dream through the works of various writers, artists, and scholars, you will also examine the various ways through which you yourself relate to the topic.
