

Teresa Saxton

“Inquiry into Your Generation” investigates the Millennial Generation (birth years 1982-2003). Looking back to the Boomer Generation to situate the generation, we track Millennial behaviors through field research, interviews, and surveys to place our own findings and experiences as Millennials into the ever-growing pool of scholarship that attempts to define this definition and its impact on the United States. The class culminates in an original research project that allows students to investigate how the Millennial Generation affects an area of interest to them.