

Julie Voss

English 102: Inquiry into Food and Culture

Do you like food? Do you enjoy cooking—or eating? Are you interested in learning about other food cultures? This course will explore the world of food—from restaurants around campus and students' eating habits to family food traditions and cultural traditions around the world. We will visit area restaurants, read stories about food and culture, explore cookbooks, interview family members, and sample cooking shows and feature films. We may even experiment with our own cooking.